FARMVILLE.

I don't know what will be the future of the millinery business unless the girls begin to wear hats again. It is a rare thing now to find one with any variety of head gear on. This applies to our door exercise, for the hats are still seen at church and many of them can't be seen over.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Clark entertained the bridal party on the occasion of the Gills—Paulette nuptials in handsome and artistic style.

If our builders could begin by constructing roofs they could make better headway during rainy weather, but under conditions as they have been of late, progress is slow and most unsatisfactory.

All that talk about tearing down the Randolph hotel and building it anew from bottom to top has ended in wind.

As a general thing Farmville people are cheerful and hopeful. There are exceptions, but the few discontentes are long faced and lonesome.

Mr. John Berkley, of Berkley, and I eat at the same table, and as he has a well-trained bird dogs, an excellent gun and is an expert with it, I expect to have birds for breakfast from this time on until the hunting season closes And birds are said to be in goodly numbers and of fine quality. After all the turkey is the "noblest Roman of them all," and "none but the rich" can have much to do with him during the coming season. O, for the days when the gobbler sold for a dollar and the hen from 50 to 75 cents each. But the big men, ala Taft for example, tell us that there are prosperous times and it would be treason not to believe it,—"turkey or no turkey."

We have three planing mills in our town and all seem to be doing a flourishing business.

"Sow in dust and reap you must" has not been quoted by our farmers of late.

Our night watchmen are themselves closely watched, that is they have with them during the night watches a little instrument, which though it has'nt a tongue and does not talk, does tell in the morning just what the watchman did as the hours came and went the night before, and this means that the proprietor watches with his watchman though he is snugly in bed while the watcher walks the beat. Of course some sharp Yankee invented the machine. Their want of confidence is proverbial and profound.

Of the young business men of Farmville, Wade and Cralle are forging to the front. Their store is a kind of Mecca for the normal girls and during the shopping hours is generally crowded.

Our shade trees are stripping for the fight with winter.

A dispensary victim staggering up Main St. was heard to mutter, "leaves have their times to fall and so do I, but the difference between them and me is I fall more often and frequently." Sold by good men or bad men, under the auspices of church or state, the old serpent has the old bite, the old adder the old sting.

Our tinners are always busy. I travel far and wide and whenever I return to Farmville I am impressed with the fact that the stores here are the most orderly, cleanly and best managed of any I met with. Our drug stores are simply peerless.

Our town is unusually well drained. A branch sweeps through the centre, Buffalo touches the western limits, while the Appomattox flows by on the north.

Our city fathers are beginning to pay more attention to the walkways and streets of East Farmville. Until now the residents of that section had just cause of complaint. "Westward the star of Empire takes its flight," and town enterprise moves in like direction. This is literally true of all cities and towns I happen to know of.

The $30,000 left by the late Mr. James, of Norfolk, to Miss Mary Archer Hooper, of Farmville, now Mrs. McLaughery, of Bluefield, was no doubt a pleasant surprise and is highly flavored with the romantic. The rich bachelor met the fair young girl at the Springs some years before her marriage, and this is tribute to her charms.

The Rev. Mr. Hatcher closes his first year's labors in Farmville with noble work for the Master. Crowds have heard him gladly night after night and with spiritual uplift.

What would our fathers have thought if cabbage had been brought to our market in their day? Rapid transit has its disadvantages. I am persuaded that we could still grow our own hay and cabbage, with many other articles of food but for the fast flying freight trains that move from community to community, and country to country, by day and by night. In return for all this they have to buy our tobacco, but the farmers tell us that all the profits go to the speculators. This ought not so to be, and the remedy is with the farmer himself.

The pavement of our Main St. has been doing service for many years and is rough in comparison with that on our 3rd St., but is as substantial as the hills. Thanks to Simon, the mule and the cart it is kept reasonably clean.

A "sternly executed" vagrant law would do Farmville more good just now than a Carnegie library. A man who wont work ought not to eat. That's Bible teaching, and "Thy word is truth."

Farmville is a peaceable town, but now and then we have a scrap even between business men.

Thanksgiving turkeys are going to be scarce this year. "Be ye thankful" remains in full force turkey or no turkey.

Our gardens used to be dotted with little hillocks in the winter time all filled with cabbage, celery, potatoes, turnips and such like, but now there is a dead level prevailing in them and we run to the store to buy such articles of food. This is all wrong and should not be tolerated. The glorious privilege of being independent" should apply to gardens as well as to greenbacks.

Was there ever such a day as this for opticians? Everybody's eyes seem to be all wrong. How much of this is due to electric light? An old "tallow dip" used to do for one household all gathered around one table, but now a flood of light is demanded. It may be that the old people "walked more by faith."

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Many Troubles Makes You Miserable.

Most everybody who reads the news has learn to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, during the helpless too poor to pay for it, and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. I WISH.

I wish that when I left my home.
I had spoken in gentler tone
That I had held in fonder grasp
The little hand I loved to clasp.

When the eyes looked into mine,
Where love's rays are found to shine
I did not show responsive, true—
The love I always had for you.

I wish, when worn and wearied o'er
Life's toil, I could be once more
The loving one I used to be,
Could speak the words I used to say.

Yes, love is there, the outer life,
So fraught with worry, care and strife
Have laid affection's store away
To be brought forth some brighter day.

In darker days love's needed most.
Affection's rays, where joys are lost
On bring them to the loved one now.
When tears are here and sad the brow.

Don't put them on the grave and say
The words they need so much today.
Don't weep so when the tears are vain
But give them now the love they claim.

Judge C. I. Taylor held an open air session of court last Friday and it was well the time was evening, or Attorneys Gayle and Wills could not have done much one of those cold, frosty mornings last week. As it was there was quite a gathering of the neighbors to hear the case tried. The issue joined was between G. M. Toney and William Shoemaker and involved the ownership of some rent corn which Toney claimed he had a right to, by reason of Shoemaker's having plowed up some apple trees on the land on which the corn was raised. Justice Taylor decided that Shoemaker was to have the corn, but several more warrants are to be tried.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address
